It is my honor and privilege to share with you my endorsement of Ed Borey for the position as State Representative for the 21st District, Position 1. I think it is important to understand how significant this endorsement is. In my role as a former Enron executive and whistleblower, I knew before I decided to endorse a candidate for any political office, they would have to value transparency and fiscal responsibility in a way that truly set them apart. I believe Ed Borey is worthy of such an endorsement.

I first came to meet Ed Borey when he served as a member of the Board of Directors of The Integrity Institute. As the Founder and CEO of the Institute, I consider Ed Borey to be among my most trusted advisors. His policies and ideas have always been sound and fiscally responsible. I believe that Ed Borey has the business experience as a board member, Chief Operating Officer and Chief Executive Officer that the state of Washington needs in this particularly difficult time. If we have learned anything from the current economic conditions, there will be no federal bailout for the state of Washington. This requires us to examine the qualifications of the candidates we choose to represent us.

It is my personal opinion that we simply cannot continue to operate our state in the same manner and expect different results. This requires a candidate who is highly qualified in turnaround situations - one that has successfully worked with financially distressed companies. The solution requires discipline, creativity, strategy, and fiscal conservatism. In my humble opinion, such a solution will not come from the same politicians that failed to have the foresight to understand our state's economic policies were unsustainable. Our state's politicians have the choice to defend their policies as fiscally sound or offer a solution to our current crises which would require they admit their failures as policy makers. This election offers us the opportunity to choose differently and demand different results. Achieving this requires a new kind of politician - one who actually cares, listens and seeks to find a resolution without jeopardizing his character, values, or morals. In my opinion, this describes Ed Borey.

I believe selecting a representative during this difficult time requires two things: 1) Experience and 2) Commitment. Perhaps in the past you have voted, like I have, for Democrats—or perhaps you have voted for or are considering voting for a candidate who is running against Ed Borey. If this is the case, I would ask you to consider this - what kind of leader do you want representing you? Are you tired of empty promises? If honesty and trustworthiness, transparency and fiscal responsibility are important to you then the right choice is Ed Borey for the position as State Representative for the 21st District, Position 1.

Please feel free to contact me if you should have any questions about my decision to endorse Ed Borey for the position as State Representative for the 21st District, Position 1.

Sincerely,

The Integrity Institute, Inc.

Lynn Brewer
